LONGER-TERM 2024–2026 COMPARISON

NDP vote-share changes since 2024

Percentage-point differences describe aggregate results; they are not evidence of individual voter switching.

LARGEST NDP VOTE-SHARE DECLINES

NDP vote share is lower than in 2024 in 82 of 93 ridings. Although counted ballots remain below 2024 totals in all ridings, this is not a riding-specific turnout-rate comparison: 2026 riding electorate denominators are unavailable here.

CHANGES IN RIDING LEADS, 2024 VS 2026

The NDP led in 47 ridings in 2024 and currently leads in 27. It no longer leads in 21 ridings it won in 2024, and now leads in Courtenay–Comox, previously Conservative-led. These 2026 leads remain uncertified.

VALID-VOTE SHARES

Party share equals that party's valid votes divided by all valid votes in that riding or province. Rejected ballots excluded.

TURNOUT CAVEAT

2026 provisional turnout uses the October 14, 2026 voter register. Comparing 2024 vs 2026 counted ballots is not a comparable riding-level turnout rate.

PERCENTAGE POINTS

Vote-share changes are reported in percentage points, not relative percent changes.

INTERPRETATION LIMIT

Riding aggregates cannot prove individual voter transfers. Candidate coverage and other-party composition differ between elections.

RECOUNTS

Elections BC announced automatic recounts for Burnaby South–Metrotown and Ladysmith–Oceanside during final counting.
